Intro to the Theme

The yearbook theme for the class of 2016 is "Big things come in small packages". This theme was chosen to represent the great things that graduates of our small school can accomplish. Regis has provided opportunities for us to gain knowledge both inside and outside the classroom. The co-curricular learning opportunities have, and will continue to help each and every member of the class of 2016.

The emerging leaders who will graduate from Regis will make a large impact on people's lives across the world. Whether it be helping save lives as a nurse, educating the next generation as a teacher, running their own business, or even working in the government, the graduates of Regis will be there making a difference.

"Big things come in small packages"

Dedication

These past four years have been a journey for each and every one of us. We have worked hard to get to this point to be able to say we did it. But none of us have done this alone.
There has been at least one person who has helped each and every one of us cross that stage. It could be a family member, friend, boss, coach or professor. Each one of us are grateful for their guidance and support through both the good and bad times.

The class of 2016 dedicates this yearbook to everyone who helped us along the way.

If the members of the Class of 2016 have learned that big things sometimes come in small packages – a sunrise illuminating a room through a little window; a friend's hand on one's shoulder when the game has been lost but the team has achieved new solidarity; a scholarly footnote you have thought through that explains more about a subject than reams of wiki-spreads – then you have begun to learn the truth and importance of the present moment, too.

Most of our lives are lived in this moment. Often, you can't see the forest for the trees, but before you know it, four years have passed and the small and the daily have become a whole college career.

Here at Regis we like to say that this university is "big enough to lead and small enough to care" because those moments – instances of care and paying attention – truly add up to something big, a significant milestone.

As I was leaving the office in the dark of a winter evening, for example, a young man who was a recent graduate pulled up in a car and struck up a conversation with me.

"President Hays," he said. "Remember me? I'm from California and I graduated a couple of years ago."

I looked into his face as he stepped out of his car and did remember him.

"What are you doing now?" I asked warmly.

"Managing a research division of a major company," he replied.

"And do you like it?" I said. "Are you happy?"

"Oh, yes," he said. "I received a spectacularly fine education at this small school. I'm here tonight to pick up a friend and go to dinner. Maybe he'd like working at my company, too."

"It's great to see you," I nodded. "Have fun, the two of you, and let me know if I can do anything to help."

I was great to see him grateful for his education, a good job, friendship, relationship to the alma mater, happiness, his example of something life-changing and big, and it was all there in one package, fleeting but intense and illuminating in the person of one student who had entered into the world and discovered himself "high on a hilltop," indeed.

May each of you have your own version of that discovery and, connected to one another and to Regis, always be big enough to lead and small enough to care.

Antoinette Hays
Regis College President

To the class of 2016,
It is truly an honor to write to you, the class of 2016. This is such an exciting time for you all as you finish one chapter in your life, and start another.

Some of you will be continuing on to graduate school, others may go right into the work force, and some of you might travel the world!

As you all go off into the world I leave you with three tips to remember.

The first is to do what makes you happy. What's the point in pursuing a task or a job that doesn't make you happy? You only have one life so make the best of it!

Second, never forget the people at Regis who have helped you grow as a person. College is a life-changing experience where we learn a lot about ourselves, how to deal with others, and how to be mature adults. Whether you want to believe or not, you all have at least one person who has helped you through tough times at Regis, or a mentor who was always there to listen to you vent about your life. Don't forget them and don't forget what you learned from being a student at Regis.

My third and last point is to give back to your community, and I don't just mean the Regis community. Give back to the community you live in, to your state, to your county, to your job, or other organizations and communities that you belong to. Contribute to your society to make it better for future generations. Put the skills and knowledge that you have learned through your time at Regis to make the world a better place.

It has been a pleasure to serve you all as your Student Government President and I am sad to see you go, but I am sure you all will do great things. Good luck!

Matt Nortan
SGA President

Dear Class of 2016,

Where did the time go? It's truly amazing to think that our experience at Regis College has come to an end, yet we will have many fond memories. It seems like yesterday we were freshmen at orientation and ready to embark on our college journey. in the blink of an eye, we have grown to where we are today; we are ready to take the next step in our lives. Through the late nights and early mornings filled with homework, studying, internships and clinical, we have reached our goal of a college degree!

It is often said "good things come in small packages", and this phrase certainly pertains to Regis. Although we didn't attend a large university, there was never a shortage of opportunity, knowledge, achievement and friendship surrounding the Class of 2016, whether in the classroom, in the community or on the athletic field. Also, we enjoyed a major campus renovation which further enhanced our college experience. The campus transformation resulted in new dormitory suites, a grass quad and yes, even a Dunkin' Donuts! Not only did our campus improve, but we have grown with it, not just as students, but as responsible, intelligent and caring individuals.

While many challenges lie ahead, remember to stay true to your faith and values. Use your talents, and wisdom to achieve your future aspirations in whatever you may be called to do in life. Most of all, appreciate and enjoy time with family and friends.
I want to thank you for giving me the privilege to serve as your class president. I wish you good health, happiness and all the best in your future endeavors!

Congratulations, Class of 2016 on your graduation!

Sincerely,

Andrew O'Reilly
Class of 2016 President

To the Class of 2016,
This yearbook was created to provide you with a keepsake of your four years at Regis and to give you the opportunity to reflect back on those memories. We hope you will remember your friends, the teams that you played for, and the clubs and organizations of which you were involved.

It has been an amazing experience getting to work on your yearbook. The yearbook staff has been working hard to give you a lasting memento of your time here at Regis. Each and every member of the Class of 2016 has been on the yearbook staff's mind throughout this process. We wanted to make sure that you enjoyed looking back on your time at Regis.

While our yearbook may be small, the memories are big.

We wish you good luck in all of your endeavors.

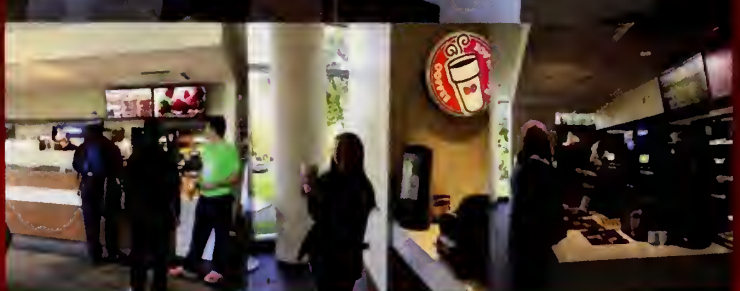
Regis Traditions



Traditions are an important part of the Regis heritage. In accordance with the values and beliefs of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Boston, we strive to honor the institutional heritage with the following events: Convocation, Founders Day, Christmas Tree Lighting, Heritage Day and Baccalaureate. We put these beliefs to practice through our Regis service and solidarity trips such as Villa El Salvador, Peru.

Convocation

REGIS ON THE RISE
